Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

THE first report on the Literary Digest's straw balloting of the California governor's race, made public today, reveals a startling shift—if the actual voting bears it out on November 6.

Digest Poll Gives Republican 2 1/2 to 1 Lead Over Sinclair

Startling Upset Revealed in First Straw Ballot Returns

42,141 TO 17,284

Governor Merriam Holds Big Lead Over California's Radical Democrat

Frank F. Merriam, the Republican candidate, leads Upton Sinclair, the Democratic candidate, by about 2 1/2 to 1 in the first returns of The Literary Digest's "straw" poll for Governor of California, according to the tabulations published in this week's issue of the magazine.

Of the 67,398 votes received and counted in the current tally, Frank F. Merriam gets 42,141, or 62.70 per cent of the total poll vote to date.

Upton Sinclair is shown receiving 17,284 votes, or 25.72 per cent.

Raymond L. Haight, Progressive-Commonwealth candidate, has 7,471 ballots marked for him, or 11.12 per cent of the total of the first returns.

Sam Darcy, the Communist candidate, gets 282 votes and Milen C. Dempster, the Socialist party standard

Candidates	Party	Votes For
Darcy	Communist	262
Dempster	Socialist	50
Haight	Progressive-Commonwealth	7,471
Merriam	Republican	42,141
Sinclair	Democrat	17,284
	Total	67,208

bearer, receives 50 votes. Their combined vote is less than one-half per cent of the total tally.

The Literary Digest calls special attention to the fact that these returns are the first received and that the standing of the candidates may be changed as additional votes are counted.

700,000 Ballots Mailed

Nearly 700,000 ballots were mailed to individuals in every class and occupation in every county and community of California, the magazine announces. It is pointed out that this number represents about one-half of the total of voters in the last election for Governor in California in 1930.

"The nation-wide excitement created when Upton Sinclair, ex-Socialist and originator of the 'EPIC' (End Poverty in California) plan, won the Democratic nomination for governor on August 28," The Literary Digest will state, "has been increasing steadily as election day approaches."

"The whole country is wondering who the next Governor of California will be."

Poll of California
Therefore, The Literary Digest, following its policy of discovering and recording public sentiment on outstanding personalities and issues, decided that California would be a suitable place in which to take one of its famous polls.

"It mailed nearly 700,000 ballots to individuals in every class and occupation of society, in every county and community of the state, asking each person who received a ballot to indicate his or her choice for Governor among the five candidates:

"Sam Darcy, Communist; Milen C. Dempster, Socialist; Raymond L. Haight, Progressive-Commonwealth; Frank F. Merriam, Republican; Upton Sinclair, Democrat."

"It will be noted that the figure of nearly 700,000, the number of persons polled by The Literary Digest in California, is about one-half of the total number of votes—1,383,846—cast in California's last election for Governor, in 1930."

"Many, noting the showings made by the two leading candidates, Mr. Merriam and Mr. Sinclair, in this Literary Digest poll, will wish to compare them with the showings made by these same candidates in the Republican and Democratic primaries of two months ago."

"The total number of votes in the Republican primary was 816,449. Of these ballots, 346,329, or 42.42 per cent, were cast for Mr. Merriam, while the remainder went to his three opponents, John R. Quinn, C. C. Young, and Raymond L. Haight."

"Mr. Haight is now running as the Progressive-Commonwealth candidate, and is third in The Literary Digest poll. Mr. Haight, incidentally, won 84,977, or 10.41 per cent of the total vote cast in the Republican primary."

"The total vote in the Democratic primary was 842,209. Of these ballots, 346,220, or 41.10 per cent, were cast for Mr. Sinclair, while the remainder went to his eight opponents, George Creel, Justus Wardell, Milton K. Young, and five other candidates in the race."

Illness May Handicap Hope's Team

Texarkana Keyed Up for Friday's Football Contest

Razorbacks Bringing 40-Piece Band Here for Annual Game

TWO ILL, ONE HURT

Payne and Madison Under the Weather—Speedy Injured Last Week

Breaking down the resistance of a Texarkana Razorback team that is keyed to the peak, is the big job before Coach Foy Hammons' pack of blue-striped Bobcats in what looms as a tough battle in the new high school stadium here Friday night.

"The Forkers are full of confidence, in spite of the fact they will be out-weighted and doped to lose," reports from Texarkana said.

Co-captains "Shorty" Stevens and Neil Martin seemed to express the thoughts of the visiting team when they said "A team that won't be beaten—can't be beaten."

Inspired by last Friday's victory over El Dorado, the Bobcats were confident of taking the Forkers as they went through spirited work-outs early this week.

Struck by Illness
But several things have happened, causing Coach Hammons to become "uneasy" as game time neared Friday.

Payne and Madison, the big guns in the Bobcat backfield, are both ill. Madison has failed to report for practice the last three days. Payne went home sick Thursday afternoon with a stomach ailment.

Speedy, the blond flyer of Coach Hammons' ball jugglers, is not in condition and it appeared doubtful whether he would play. An injury he received in the El Dorado game has not healed sufficiently as expected.

Jack Turner, another back who hasn't played in two weeks because of a knee injury, was expected to start, but whether he would be able to stay in the game is causing Coach Hammons additional worries.

The starting backfield may be Harper at quarter, Turner and Stroud at halves and Spears at fullback.

The line appears to be in better shape than at any time this season. Hobbs and Hitchcock, tackle and guard respectively, will be in the game. Both were out last week with injuries.

In spite of sickness and injuries, the Bobcats still have power and speed, and will be on a par with the Forkers when the two teams take the field Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Texarkana Band
Texarkana will send a 40-piece band, 200 students and approximately 100 fans, reports from that city said.

Additional parking space has been made available at the stadium by PERA workmen.

Tickets are on sale at Moreland's drug store, Jacks new stand, Hope Confectionery, Webb's news stand, and Green's Confectionery. Box seats may be purchased at Roy Anderson's insurance office.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Charles M. Kinsolving, national commander of the American Veterans association, charged Thursday night that the American Legion convention's request for immediate payment of the bonus was "politically inspired."

"This resolution," said Kinsolving, "which in its very essence seems to be politically inspired, is nothing more than a request for an additional hand-out on the part of an organization a large proportion of whose membership never saw active service."

Futrell Denies He Asks 4-Year Term

Governor for Nos. 19 and 20—But He Denies Interest in No. 21

LITTLE ROCK—A statement branding as "absolutely false" reports that the Futrell administration is combining its forces with proponents of the proposed four-year term amendment was made by Governor Futrell Thursday.

Governor Futrell said that he has made no suggestions as to how any state employee or official shall vote on amendments submitted at the November 6 general election, and that he will make none. All expenses which have been incurred in connection with the "Futrell amendments" to limit governmental expenses and to restrict issuance of bonds, have been or will be met by the governor, he said.

The governor's statement followed announcement of the opening of headquarters for the "grab amendment" at the New Capital hotel, and statements by Roy W. Spence, secretary of the State Highway Commission, and other officials that they are supporting the amendment.

In a statement published Thursday, Mr. Spence said he is working for the amendment as a private citizen and that his efforts have no connection with the administration and the Futrell amendments.

BLITHEVILLE, Ark.—Mrs. Charles S. Lowthorp of Hope was re-elected president of the Arkansas Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at the closing business session of the convention Thursday.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. Earl Cunningham, Prairie Grove, first vice president;

Mrs. J. P. McCreary, Fayetteville, second vice president;

Mrs. John Pruniski, North Little Rock, recording secretary;

Mrs. George Spraggins, Hope, corresponding secretary;

Negro Prisoner Is Stolen From Jail

Mob Reported Taking Him to Father of Slain Girl for Punishment

BREWTON, Ala.—(AP)—An armed mob estimated at 100 men stormed the Escambia county jail Friday and seized Claude Neal, negro, who allegedly confessed to attacking and slaying Miss Lolo Cannady at Greenwood, Fla., a week ago.

Sheriff G. S. Byrne said the men came to the jail in 30 cars bearing Florida licenses.

"We're going to take him to Marianna, Fla., and turn him over to the girl's father and let him do what he wants to with him," the leaders of the mob told Jailer Shanholster.

THE DOGS' TRIUMPH

Gasoline Enthusiasts Found Their Snowmobile Was a "Bust"

Lieutenant Charles E. Lofgren, U. S. N., secretary and personal aide to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd on the first Antarctic expedition in 1928, and "Tom Pratt," Labrador husky who first opened his puppy eyes in the darkness of Little America, brought a vivid glimpse of the frozen South Pole regions to Hope Rotary club Friday noon in Hotel Barlow.

Lieutenant Lofgren appeared at Hope High School Thursday during an educational tour, and stopped over for the Rotary luncheon before continuing to Texarkana for two engagements Friday afternoon and night.

Man and His Dog
The lieutenant talked fascinatingly of the land of the great Ross ice barrier, while "Tom Pratt," perched on the dining room table, looked his amiable dog's best.

The lieutenant said "Tom Pratt" was a killer among his own kind but gentle with men. "Tom Pratt" is now 5 1/2 years old, weighs 85 pounds, and nine of his kind will pull a sled-load of 1,600 pounds.

"Tom Pratt" reminded the lieutenant of a comic incident in the Antarctic when gasoline's challenge to dog-power met with disaster. The begged permission of Admiral Byrd to try out their new snowmobile—that is, a car fitted up with skis on the front axle and a caterpillar tread on the rear.

Admiral Byrd reluctantly consented to the trial. The snowmobile got 80 miles away from camp—and then the men who low-rated the faithful Eskimo dog had a break-down and walked the whole distance back to camp, to be greeted by jeers for many a day!

The Ross Ice Barrier
Lieutenant Lofgren told of the sailing of Byrd's two ships from New York City in 1928 across 13,000 miles of ocean to Little America. They threaded their way through 350 miles of ice floes, then found 400 miles of clear water to the great Ross Barrier, at the foot of which the Little America camp was set up. Before winter shut down the two ships retired to New Zealand, 2,300 miles away—and as they sailed away they were watched by a little colony of 42 men and 55 dogs to be looked in by the ice for a full twelve months.

In the Little America colony the houses were built 200 yards apart, connected by snow-tunnels to allow communication during blizzards.

Cold? The kerosene for the almps froze at 50 degrees below zero, and the lowest record reading was 72, the speaker said. The warmest temperature in the Antarctic summer was 21 above zero.

Lieutenant Lofgren called attention to Admiral Byrd's own summary of the difference between the North and South Pole regions:

Under the North Pole is a frozen ocean 10,000 feet deep. There is plenty of animal life, and there are Eskimos.

But the South Pole sits on a land plateau 10,000 feet above sea level. There is no human life, and no animal life except seals and whales.

The South Pole region has sandstone, indicating its earth is not of volcanic origin.

There is coal, also, showing that once upon a time Antarctica had a temperate climate.

Guests at Friday's luncheon meeting were:

Blake Scott and Dr. Hudson, of Prescott; and John P. Cox, Hope.

Joe Cronin Will Manage Red Sox

Senators' Pilot Unexpectedly Sold to Boston, Player-Manager

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Joe Cronin, young manager of the Washington American League baseball club, was sold to the Boston Red Sox Friday, and reports said he was given a five-year contract as player-manager.

The sale of Cronin, who brought a pennant and world championship to Washington came as a surprise, particularly since he recently married the daughter of Clark Griffith, the Washington owner, and was regarded as likely to succeed Griffith some day.

Arkansan Enlarges on Prophecy Made While Landing in New York

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Senator Joe T. Robinson Friday expressed "fear" that war in Europe "is almost certain to come at no very remote date."

Senator Robinson, who as a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, spent several weeks in Europe this summer and who expressed "amazement" at the feeling of unrest noted abroad when he landed at New York a week ago, elaborated on this theme upon reaching home Friday.

"I do not look for war in the early future but fear that it is almost certain to come at no very remote date," he said.

"Europe probably would have already been at war in the Balkans but for the fact that there is neither money nor credit with which to carry on the conflict."

Senator Robinson said he found Europe "spotted with economic depression and political complexities."

"Come and get it, boys," belowed Senator Huey Long, and here he's shown demonstrating what he means by his "share the wealth" program. Passing out nearly $15,000 in $7 lots, Huey financed trips to Nashville, Tenn., for 1500 Louisiana State students and many others to see the L. S. U.-Vanderbilt football game. As the clamoring throng filed past, Huey handed out the money and accepted "I. O. Hueys" written on scraps of paper.

Contractual Right Fixed by Registry

Birth Certificate Has Definite Value in Business Matters

LITTLE ROCK—Among the practical uses of birth certificates, as listed by the Federal Bureau of the Census, is that "as proof of age to determine the validity of a contract entered into by an alleged minor."

Ordinarily a contract entered into by a person under 21 years of age is not binding. The minor, that is, the person not 21 years old, can usually hold the other person to the contract but the other person cannot hold the minor responsible if the minor does not want to be held to the contract and pleads infancy.

Birth certificates, then, may possibly be of advantage to either party of a contract. When a person should see to misrepresent his age and to make his claims as being under 21 years of age, that evidence might be refused by a birth certificate. On the other hand, a person under 21 years of age, proving his age by a birth certificate, may be released from an unjust contract.

Arkansas babies of today should have no cause to worry over legal rights when they call for birth certificates. The "Register Your Baby" campaign being carried on jointly by the Federal Bureau of the Census, the Arkansas Emergency Relief Administration and the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Board of Health seeks to register births of every baby born in the state in the past year. Parents are urged to cooperate in the campaign by returning to the Bureau of the Census the cards which they have received asking for information concerning their children. The card will be checked by the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Little Rock and the births found not to be already registered will be registered immediately.

Further Studies Made on Oseleted Substance "C" Prevents Scurvy and Possibly, Rheumatic Fever; "D" Controls Calcium and Phosphorus Use

Newspapers recently carried the story of the isolation of vitamin C in pure form as a substance called hexuronic acid. Because this vitamin is known to prevent scurvy, the isolated pure form of the vitamin was called ascorbic acid.

The exact place which this substance occupies in the general chemistry of the human body is not yet fully established. It has been shown, however, that it will prevent scurvy in persons on diets deficient in vitamin C.

Now additional studies are being made to find out whether this vitamin will affect in any way the constitutents of the blood. One group of investigators has felt that a deficiency in this vitamin might, in some way, be related to rheumatic fever, because the conditions when animals are fed on diets deficient in vitamin C are much the same as those seen in rheumatic fever.

The vitamin long called vitamin D
which is known to be the active substance for the prevention of rickets,
has also been developed in pure form
and called calciferol.

Some German scientists found that the exposure of a substance called er-gosterol to the sun's rays (either natural or artificial) developed a considerable number of substances, one of which had the special power of preventing the rickets. The other products have no had this specific action.

It is believed that the chief purpose of vitamin D in the body is to control the way in which the body uses calcium and phosphorus. Others have felt that vitamin D acts primarily on the parathyroid glands, and that the secretion from these glands in turn controls the use of calcium and phosphorus in the body.

In any event it seems that a proper supply of this vitamin is necessary for building bones and teeth.

It also has been well established that proper amounts of vitamin D are not found in most food substances and that the average human being in cities does not get the vitamin D that he needs. For this reason vitamin D is now secured for the human body in artificial ways.

These include the giving of cod liver oil, the giving of irradiated viosterol and the giving of irradiated foods such as milk obtained from cows that have been fed on irradiated substances, the taking of irradiated yeast and the ex-posure of the body itself to the direct rays of ultra violet light.

Whereas the average human being needs little additional vitamin D after he has once grown to adulthood, there seems to be evidence that women who are in the period previous to childbirth have a derangement of the calcium absorption in their bodies.

Thus prospective mothers should take particularly the substances necessary to provide them with vitamin D.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When DAN BLEEKER, publisher of The Blade, learns that CHARLES MORDEN, police reporter, has been mysteriously
killed he employs SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminologist, to solve the murder.

Morden had been investigating the affairs of FRANK B. CAT-HAY, wealthy and prominent,
who had threatened to sue The Blade because the newspaper reported Cathay had been arrested.
The man arrested was an im-poster giving the name of Cathay and accompanied by a girl called MARY BRIGGS.

Soon after Morden is found dead
some news that Cathay is dead—
possibly poisoned.

Morden's fingerprints are found in the apartment of a girl named ALICE LORTON who has reported the disappearance of her
roommate, ESTHER ORDWAY.
Griff and Bleeker question Alice Lorton.

Griff learns that CARL RA-CINE, detective employed by MRS.
CATHAY, is trying to locate a MRS. BLANCHIE MALONE. He also discovers that the man who registered at the Hillcrest hotel
the night of the arrest was the imposter and not Cathay.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XX

ALICE LORTON answered Griff's third ring at the doorbell. She was attired in pajamas, slippers,
and a kimono. Her wide, innocent, blue eyes stared at Griff in startled apprehal, and then her lips broke into a smile.

"Oh," she said in a throaty tone,
"It's you."

"Yes," Griff said. "I'm sorry I disturbed you, but I've got to ask you a few more questions."

"Come in," she said.

Griff entered the apartment. The windows were open and a night wind whipped the lace curtains about. Alice Lorton went to the windows, closed them, shivered slightly and dropped into an overstuffed chair, curling her feet up in under her.

"What time is it?" she asked.

"Not very late," he told her.
"Somewhere around midnight."

"I guess I'd just dropped off to sleep," she said and yawned.

Griff took a cigaret case from his pocket, extended it to her. She hesi-tated for a moment, then took a cigaret. Griff took one and held a match to the tip of the girl's cigaret. Just as the flame illuminated her countenance, he said casually,
"You knew Cathay was dead, of course?"

The girl's face stiffened into rigid immobility. She remained perfectly still, the flame from the match blackening the paper tip of the cigaret. She did not inhale the smoke.
Griff watched her with narrowed eyes.

AFTER a moment she sucked a deep inhalation and expelled a cloud of smoke, drew back from the flame of the match and settled down in the chair.

"Who," she asked, "is Cathay?"

"A man in Riverview," Griff said.
"I didn't know him," she said.
"What did he die of? Was he a friend of Esther's?"

"And then, of course," Griff went on, "Morden is dead."

"Oh," she said, "I knew that. He's the newspaper reporter. I read about him in the newspapers."

"Did you know him?" asked Griff.
She shook her head.

"Never saw him before?"

"No," she said. "Why?"

"We have reason to believe that he was here in the apartment the day he was murdered."

She looked at him with wide, startled eyes. She made a fist with her right hand and pressed it against her lips.

"Oh," she said in a suppressed
voice.

"And you're certain you'd never seen him?" asked Griff.

"I'm certain," she said.

Griff stared searchingly at her.
Her face, now devoid of make-up, showed a pasty white. Her lips were taut and pale. Her eyes were dark with panic.

Griff's eyes focused steadily upon her lips.

"Even," he said, "if it should appear that Morden knew you, you would still insist that you didn't know him?"

SHE tried to speak twice before words came.

"Knew me?" she asked. "But how could he, when I don't know him?"

"Suppose I should tell you," said Griff, "that your name was entered in his notebook, together with this address?"

"My name?" she asked.

"Yes," he said. "Alice Lorton, Elito Apartments, 319 Robinson street. How would you explain that?"

She looked at him, and the fear fled from her face as hot chocolate syrup slips from a ball of ice cream.

"Oh," she said, laughing, "you're just trying to pump me, aren't you?
No, really, Mr. Griff, I didn't know him. You startled me for a moment with those statements. But I'm telling you the truth. I didn't know the man. I never saw him in my life."

Griff's eyes remained fastened upon her lips.

"You don't seem to attach much importance to the fact that your name was in his notebook?"

"It couldn't have been," she said.
"Unless Esther had given it to him.
Of course, that might have happened. He might have mentioned Esther that he had a friend, and that he'd like to make a foursome some night. Then Esther might have given him my name. But I think she'd have spoken to me about it if she had. . . . do you suppose, Mr. Griff, there's any possibility that Esther's disappearance had anything to do with the fact that this reporter was here on the day he was murdered?"

"That," Griff said grimly, "is what I'm trying to find out."

"Oh," she said, "I'm sure it couldn't have. Esther was mysterious, very mysterious. She liked to keep her affairs to herself. She wanted to be secretive about everything. She was a great individualist. She carried the apartment in her own name and made me have my mail sent in her care, and all that sort of stuff. But I know it was just some peculiar quirk of her character. It wasn't because she had anything to conceal."

GRIFF regarded her with a stare
which was not unkindly.

"Don't you think," he said, "you have carried this quite far enough, Miss Ordway?"

"What are you talking about?"
she gasped.

"You know what I'm talking about," he said. "You're Esther Ordway. There never was any Alice Lorton. You just took that name in order to give Esther Ordway a chance to disappear. You deceived yourself just now, and you've betrayed yourself by half a dozen little things since I first came to the apartment, but, mainly, you showed your relief when I mentioned that the name of Alice Lorton was written in Morden's notebook. You knew that it couldn't have been, because the name of Alice Lorton was one that you had made up on the spur of the moment
after Morden had been killed."

She took the cigaret from her lips, tried to knock off the ashes.
The hand quivered. The cigaret dropped from the nerveless fingers to the carpeted floor. Her face was a dead-white, her lips pale, the eyes wide and startled.

Griff picked up the cigaret, pinched out the end and dropped it into the ash tray.

"Are you," he asked, "going to come clean?"

"Why," she gasped, "I never heard of any such thing! What . . .
what . . . makes you think that I'm Esther Ordway?"

"The fact that you're been living in the apartment several months for one thing, without having a single belonging that you could identify as yours. The further fact that the clothes you claim are Esther Ordway's are the type of clothes that would be worn by a blond and not the ones that would be worn by a brunet. The further fact that you've taken such elaborate pains to convince us that under no circumstances could you possibly have been acquainted with any boy friend of Esther Ordway.
The fact that the apartment is registered in the name of Esther Ordway; that the name of Alice Lorton doesn't appear upon the directory . . ."

"But," she said, "I've explained
all that. I've told you just how it happened."

"Yes," he said, "it's a good explanation—just a little bit too good.
Miss Ordway. Don't you think you'd better give me the complete story
before I call in the police?"

Birth Registration Legal Advantage

Age and Legitimacy Are Among 13 Arguments
for Registration

LITTLE ROCK.—There is hardly a relation of life, social, legal, or economic, in which the evidence furnished by an accurate registration of births may not prove to be of the greatest value, not only to the individual, but also to the public at large,
according to Dr. W. B. Grayson, State Health Officer, under whose department operates the State Bureau of Vital Statistics.

The "Register Your Baby" campaign
now being undertaken jointly by the Federal Bureau of the Census, the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Board of Health and the Arkansas Emergency Relief Administration, is of importance to every baby in Arkansas because every baby in the state is entitled to whatever rights he may some time want to establish in one or in all three of these phases of his life.

Thirteen practical reasons for birth registration are listed by the Federal Bureau of the Census on the standard certificates of birth. Six of these practical uses furnish prima facie evidence simply on the presentation of a certified birth certificate, these being evidence "to prove age and legitimacy of heirs," "to establish age and proof of citizenship and descent in order to vote," "to establish the right of admission to the professions and to many public offices," "as evidence of legal age to marry," "as proof of citizenship in order to obtain a passport,"
and "as evidence in the claim for exemption or the right to jury and military service."

Parents of the state, understanding these practical reasons for the registration of their babies, are responding enthusiastically to the request made by the Bureau of the Census that the names of all children born during the past twelve months be reported. Parents who have not already returned the cards they received from the Bureau of the Census are urged to do so immediately.

It's News When Mae Meets Baer

And the Belle of the Nineties Puts Prize-Fighter
in His Place

INSIDE—It's News
HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — When it comes to a display of aplomb, whom would you pick, Mae Baer or Mae West?

Mae was around Paramount studio
looking into preparations for his coming picture "Kids on the Cliff" and saying Mae West hurried over and slapped that regal personage a neat clip on the back. "Hi," said Mae, beaming. "I just came over to tell you I been thinking about having you come up and play my leading lady."

Mae didn't even seem to notice the slap on her back.

"Thanks," she said in that lazy low voice. "Thanks for thinking of me. I appreciate it. And turned her back and walked away."

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Scansoring the Hair—Salt and Vinegar
Help Condition It

The outstanding coiffure and cosmetic experts tell us that there are many simple beauty hints which go a long way toward improving one's personal appearance. They realize that the average woman doesn't have time to spend hours a day on complicated routines and for that reason they often are quite willing to give out a few trade secrets.

For example, the girl who wants her hair to be soft, shiny and silky should learn the value of vinegar and lemon juice rinses. When your hair has been washed and rinsed twice, put the juice of two fresh lemons in a bowl of water, douse your head and then rinse again with clear water. If you use vinegar, one-half cupful to a quart of water is the rule. Be sure to rinse it all out.

Any woman who is worried to death
about oily hair, but who has little time to devote to hot oil shampoos and use of tonic might try the salt water method for a few nights. It will correct the oily condition, temporarily—at least until she can go in for serious treatment.

Simply put one teaspoonful of salt in a cup of warm water. After brushing, dip finger tips in the solution and massage the scalp—not the hair. Keep on until every inch of scalp has been massaged. Repeat each night for a week.

Along with the hair hints, we give you a simplified way to use tissue cream. If you are to tired to use a patter, put on tissue cream before you take a bath. Leave it on while in the tub and you'll discover that much of it is absorbed by the skin without any extra trouble on your part.

Nazi Church Head 'Broken' by Hitler

Director Apparently Abandons Mueller in Face of Aroused Nation

BERLIN, Germany — (AP) — A dramatic crisis in Germany's bitter church controversy Thursday brought an almost open break between Adolf Hitler and his reichbishop, Ludwig Mueller, and foreshadowed, informed sources said, the Nazi government's early withdrawal from church conflicts.

The rift between the Reichsfuehrer and his chief Protestant protector forecast in recent weeks by fast-growing hostility to Mueller's dictatorial rule, came as Hitler announced he would not today, or at any time in the future receive Mueller for the purpose of taking his oath of loyalty.

Mueller's rebuff at his leader's hand left his fate, that of his right-hand man, Dr. August Jaeger, and of the entire German Christian church movement in doubt.

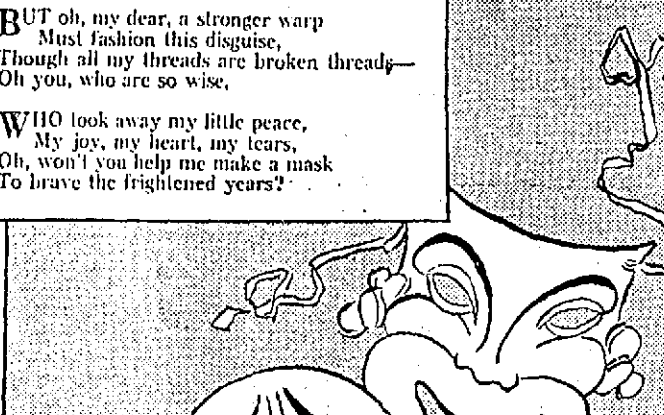

Consternation and apprehension prevailed at the Reich's Protestant church administration building as Mueller and some two dozen bishops he had appointed waited in the vain

The mask I chose was gay.
I wore it up and down the street
The night love rode away.

Oh, won't you help me make a mask

In last Tuesday's edition describing the candidacy of C. F. Erwin on the Republican ticket for Hempstead county judge The Star erroneously referred to the late James M. Haneagan, county judge from 1886 to 1890, as also being a Republican. Mr. Haneagan actually filed as an Independent, and while this has been a good many years ago the best information The Star has after several days' research is that Mr. Haneagan considered himself an Independent Democrat. The Star is glad to make this correction.

Meadows to Play on Reddies Team

Hope Boy Ruled Eligible by Association, Reversing Committee

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—On appeal from the decision of the Eligibility Committee of the Arkansas Interscholastic Athletic Conference holding Elwood Meadows of Henderson State Teachers College ineligible to play football, presidents of six of the eight colleges of the association voted Thursday to overrule the committee. Two other presidents declined to vote on Meadows' eligibility because they said they did not have sufficient facts before them to enable them to vote intelligently.

As a result of the majority's decision, Dr. J. R. Grant, president of Ouachita College and head of the conference, declared the player eligible.

Evidence was placed before the committee that Meadows participated in the Army and Navy hospital game at Hot Springs, the Monticello A. & M. College game, the game with Arkansas College at Batesville and the game with Mississippi A. & M. College.

In their appeal, Henderson authorities maintained that the Army and Navy hospital game was a "second team" game and would not count as one of the three games, and they also produced newspaper accounts of the Henderson-Mississippi A. & M.

game to show that Meadows did not play.

Several affidavits were submitted that Meadows did not participate in the Mississippi A. & M. game and that the Army and Navy game was played by the second team, leaving only two games in which the Henderson captain and star tackle played four years ago.

Meadows, captain of the Henderson team, is a Hope boy and a graduate of Hope High School. While attending school here he was captain of the Bobcat football team and was captain of the Bobcat basketball team two years.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Text: Ephesians 4:17-27; 5:15-21
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for October 28.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

For the Christian standard of life we turn to the interpretation of a great master Christian as he gave it to early disciples in the church at Ephesus.

Paul was a man "who had learned Christ," and that is what he sets down as the one great foundation of all Christian living. We cannot follow Christ, we cannot understand His precepts or emulate His example, unless we have so lived with Him and so taken His teaching into our lives that we have learned from Him as a Master.

What is this deepest of all truths in Jesus that Paul says we may learn of Christ? It is the lesson that our lives can be recreated and renewed, that we can put on what Paul calls "the new man created in righteousness and holiness," putting away all the evil attitudes and evil words and evil acts that are associated with the "old man."

Paul, who saw the Christian life in all its largeness and comprehensiveness, saw it also in its most minute details of daily living. The large life of love and righteousness and truth was to be manifest in a restraint upon evil temper and upon a hasty tongue.

The more truly man had his heart set upon the higher things, the more inevitably would he refrain from evil habits and practices.

Paul saw this Christian life as a life of self-control and discipline, but as a life of elemental peace, because disharmony and discord had been overcome through grace. To him the Christian life was one of a supreme joy that could not be shaken even by suffering and persecution.

In his own life he showed that, even in the darkness of a prison, with his feet fast in the stocks, he and his companion could sing songs and praises to God. It means much to have an experience like that, but Paul believed that it was an experience that was possible for every Christian.

It was no isome great miraculous thing to which only a few could attain; but common people, even those whose lives had been marred by gross sins and wrong attitudes, could find such peace and joy through the recreation of their lives by the power of Christ.

This is the standard of Christian living. Our lesson is given as an incentive. All members are urged to be present, and bring with them original ideas and suggestions for entertainment and games. After the roll call and reading of the minutes the meeting was closed with the Mizpah.

ternational temperance lesson, but the standard applies to every aspect of life and to everything that would weaken or destroy the soul's integrity and strength.

Paul saw men and women giving themselves over to evil habits and evil practices in the hope of finding some stimulation and intoxication, as young folks today would say "getting a kick out of life." He pointed out a higher way.

It was not a way of mere negation or of dumbness; it was a way also of inspiration and of stimulation amounting even to intoxication. But Paul's words were, "Be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit."

That is intoxication to some purpose.

The Modern Oxford Bible is said to be the only book in the world that does not contain a typographical error.

IT'S comparatively simple to choose the meat dish for a meal. Roast beef, baked ham, chops, or chicken are always welcome. But what should be served with the meat to prevent monotony—that's the question.

Of course you can turn to the cook-books for suggestions. For other timely ideas—food suggestions that are in season and within your price range—turn to the pages of your daily newspaper. There you will find tasty, colorful fresh vegetables and fruits displayed; appetizing variety in canned and packaged foods; delicious desserts that are easy to make; crispy, healthful breakfast cereals, beverages that are appropriate for both young and old.

As a matter of fact you'll be pleasantly surprised at the variety of foods offered in this newspaper. By reading the advertisements before you shop, you will be better able to plan interesting meals.

Senator Overton Beaten by Henry

New Orleansian Answers Senate-Floor Remark With His Fists

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — United States Senator John H. Overton and Burt W. Henry, widely known lawyer, settled a political dispute in the old fashioned way Thursday when they tied up in a furious one-round fist fight in the crowded lobby of the Roosevelt hotel.

Squaring off as excited spectators filled the lobby, Overton, senator colleague and political ally of Huey P. Long, and Henry, anti-Long leader, fought for nearly three minutes before bellboys stopped the fight.

The finish round Overton bleeding from a cut over his right eye and marked by a cut and swollen upper lip, a "strawberry" on his chin and two well defined bruises under each eye that may blend into "shiners."

Henry was unmarked. With a couple of exceptions, which may or may not be important, their after-the-battle versions of the trouble jibed.

Henry, demanding an apology for a remark Overton made about him on the floor of the United States Senate a year ago, said he "slapped" Overton on the first blow.

Overton said Henry "struck" him when his hands were down. At any rate, Henry led with his right, which may be unorthodox but it was most effective. It split Overton's eye and the blood spurted.

armed, waded in "and fought the best I could," he said.

Henry, tall, lean and fast, stood off and punched in the general direction of Overton's head. Most of his blows must have landed.

Overton, 59, said the last fight he had was when he was 18.

Henry, 36, neatly parried an inquiry that he has been working out lately in the New Orleans Athletic Club.

"Don't make me out as a professional," asked Henry, president of the exclusive Boston Club, New Orleans' oldest club.

Overton offered no alibis but said he wondered if Henry didn't have a ring on his hand that caused the cut over his eye.

Henry wears a band ring. "But it's on my left hand and I didn't use my left at all," said Henry.

New Tax Worries German Bachelor

Family Men Relieved at Expense of Single Wage-Earners

BERLIN Germany—(AP)—The way of the bachelor in Nazi Germany becomes progressively harder. Tax schedules for 1935 issued Thursday, revealed that heads of families will be granted new offsets at the expense of bachelors.

Incomes of 3,800 marks ($1,520) are to be tax-exempt for fathers supporting five children, whereas bachelors in that salary group are to be taxed only 563 marks ($225).

From a bachelor's income of 75,000 marks ($30,000) the tax collector will appropriate 37,500 marks ($15,000), while the father of three children with such an income will be obliged to pay only 23,400 marks ($9,400).

On incomes exceeding 120,000 marks ($48,000) bachelors will be taxed 50 per cent, while all others will pay 40

The plane is forced to risk a landing on the choppy sea. It throws a plume of spray the moment it touches the water...

Then disaster. The plane turns turtle. Henry Johnson, a mechanic, is killed. Four survivors cling to the fuselage, to be rescued by Captain George Fried's crew, and brought back to New York, with the films.

Robison Employees Hold Session Here

62 From Prescott, Nashville and Hope Stores Meet in This City

Employees of the Geo. W. Robison & Co. department stores met Thursday night at the Hope store for their monthly meeting. Fifty-three of the company's 62 employees from Prescott, Nashville and Hope attended.

Stanley White, advertising manager of The Star, was a guest of the meeting and made a brief talk, telling of the business outlook as expressed at a recent convention of industrial advertisers in Cincinnati, Ohio. He told the Hope gathering that of the 200 men attending the Ohio convention, practically all were preparing their 1935 advertising budget for the largest year they had had since the crash of 1929.

Following Mr. White's talk, Carson C. Lewis, general manager of the company's three stores, told the employees of various ways in which they could improve their sales and their helpfulness to the stores' progress. He also gave employees the figures on each of the store's improvement during 1934, which, summed up, indicated a very substantial increase in business volume for all three stores.

At the close of the Hope meeting, refreshments were served.

Famed Driver Is Guest of 200 District Ford Motor Employees

More than 200 southwest Arkansas Ford Dealers, employees and their families, met at Hotel Barlow Thursday night and heard Ralph DePalma, famous auto racing driver, tell of his past experiences.

Among the group were three officials of the Ford Motor company, J. J. Graham, zone representative, F. L. Hicks, branch manager, and H. R. Adams, commercial representative.

DePalma, principal speaker on the program, said that automobile racing was a hazardous sport.

"Twenty-five years ago I started out with a crew of 30 others seeking fame and fortune. Today only seven survive. The other six are: Barney Oldfield, Louis Chevrolet, Ray Harroun, Joe Matson, Joe Dawson and Ralph Mulford," the speaker said.

The 51-year-old Italian said he had won 2,757 of 2,889 races. The events include everything from dirt track performance to racing over the sands at Daytona Beach, Fla.

DePalma claims that his greatest triumph was when he headed the procession in the annual Indianapolis 500-mile race in 1915. In that race he averaged 98.68 miles per hour, breaking the record at that time. "Wild Bill" Cummings, the winner of last year's race, averaged 104.855 miles per hour.

DePalma moved with his parents from Italy to New York city at the age of 9. He said he was raised up in the speed game. First it was foot racing, then bicycle, motorcycle and finally, automobile.

E. L. Hicks, branch manager of the Ford Motor company, spoke briefly. Economy features and operations of the new Ford truck were shown in film.

Total number of stars has been estimated at between 30,000 and 50,000 millions.

Built Up Strength By Taking Cardui

Here's her own account of how Mrs. T. W. Hardin, of Greer, S. C., was benefited by taking Cardui: "I suffered a great deal from weakness in my back and pains in my side and felt so miserable," she writes. "I read of Cardui and decided to try it. I felt better after I took my first bottle, so kept on taking it as I felt such a need of strength, and it helped me so much."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit you, consult a physician.

Surfacing to Be Laid to Nevada Line—No Provision for Remainder

Included in 3½ million dollars worth of national recovery highway projects outlined by the State Highway Commission and Director of Highways J. C. Baker at Little Rock Thursday is nine miles of surfacing on highway No. 4 in Ouachita county.

Apparently this project will complete gravel surfacing on No. 4 from Camden to the Nevada county line—but no mention was made of the 10-mile gap from the Nevada line to Rosston, connecting with the Hope-Rosston gravel.

The 10-mile Nevada gap has never been placed on grade despite much agitation by citizens living along the route from Hope to Camden.

Lawrence's Widow Tells of His Life—Film Planned to Show Houdini's Best Tricks

HOLLYWOOD—One of the most fascinating figures the theater ever has known is to be brought to the screen.

Harry Houdini, known as one of the greatest magicians of all times, will serve as the subject of a picture which will go into production at the Columbia studio within a few weeks.

And the main character will be portrayed by Fred Keating, a close friend of the late Houdini and himself once a magician of considerable prowess. After Houdini's death veesmithETA After Houdini's death seven years ago Keating purchased much of his magic equipment, all of which will be used in the picture in which many of the tricks will be exposed.

Hepburn Influence If she keeps on, Katharine Hepburn is going to have a reputation as a star-maker one of these days. When she came into pictures, Miss Hepburn engaged Adalyn Doyle as her hand-in. A year later Miss Doyle received a small part to play and did it so well that she landed a long-term contract now Adalyn's younger sister, Putsy, is working as Katherine's stand-in. And she shows the same promise. I going up as her sister did.

Zasu Pitts goes beautiful! In Hollywood that isn't such big news as it probably will be to the outside world, as Zasu in real life is a very attractive woman. However, all her roles have had her as a very plain, looking woman. But in her next picture she's going to look just like herself—and she's pleased! Her hands still will flutter, though.

Catch as Catch Can Strolling around Charlie Chaplin at Lake Arrowhead with his two sons and playing them with questions about the military academy they are attending, all four of the Marx Brothers going into the Brown Derby also Ernest Lubitsch and Pola Negri. Gertrude Michael at Sardi's. and looking studding in a new outfit. Charles Butterworth in the same place, but doing more telephoning than eating.

Rhythmic Movie Sets Here's a new one. Designing sets to fit music. Due to the fact that every scene in "The Night of Love" is timed to music, all the sets had to be constructed correspondingly. For instance when Ramon Novarro walks across the room he does it to 12 bars of music and the room has to be wide enough for him to reach the other side at exactly the right moment.

Fun for Some Chester Morris is up to his old tricks again. Between scenes of his current film, Chester is spending all his time doing card tricks for the amusement of others in the cast—or is it amusement?
